

DECEMBER 2011 PROGRAMS

DECEMBER 4 "THE BIRTH OF ALL THINGS"

Rev Michael Nelson muses, "A group has been meeting at the Fellowship to read Lao Tzu's 81 verses of the Tao de Ching. It has been an amazing journey, frustrating, hilarious, sweet, yet always turning us toward what can't be named. We will share our experience of how 'darkness within darkness' can become the 'gateway to all understanding.'" Contact Michael at 537-2349 or minister@uufm.net

DECEMBER 11 SEASONAL MUSIC, READINGS, AND REFLECTIONS

Several UUFM members will read favorite holiday stories and poems. They will be joined by Fellowship singers and musicians, as we share memories of past Christmases. Learn more from Michael Oldfather at 537-3738 or mou812@ksu.edu

DECEMBER 18 "WHAT DO WE GIVE OURSELVES TO? WHY?"

Reverend Michael Nelson reflects, "Dedication that honors all aspects of living brings richness and meaning to our individual and shared lives. Unitarian Universalists have dedicated themselves to bringing goodness into the world for centuries. Let us carry on this tradition with intelligence and a heart willing to be filled." Contact Michael at 537-2349 or minister@uufm.net

DECEMBER 24 CHRISTMAS EVE SERVICE: MAKING MUSIC IN THE HEART

Reverend Michael Nelson invites all to join him at 7 pm, on Christmas Eve. "Let us make each birth holy. Come celebrate with family and friends the wonder of love that finds the lost, heals the broken, feeds the hungry ... Let us sing and share the stories that brings the light of joy, so that we may perceive the gift of connection to all life." Contact Michael at 537-2349 or minister@uufm.net

DECEMBER 25 "CHRISTMAS MORNING"

Former Fellowship member and UU ministerial student Eric Banner muses, "A child was born in the darkest night, and then came the morning. Our time of preparations is over, and the last shiny package has been opened. When everything we've planned for has come to pass we are left with this truth--we are blessed in the moment if we only we stop to notice." Learn more from Eric at banner.eric@gmail.com

Adlai Stevenson, former governor of Illinois, Democratic presidential candidate (twice), said, "I think that one of our most important tasks is to convince others that there's nothing to fear in difference." Before that can be done one has to examine one's own fears of difference. Unitarian Universalists, fond of believing that they engage in open inquiry, often have a narrow bandwidth in which they are open to the reception of new information. If they don't like what someone says, how they present it, if it seems "whacky," then it is often deemed "a waste of my time." I do this more than I'd like to admit; causing me to examine how I can live more openly. Stevenson believed, "... that difference, in fact, is one of the healthiest and most invigorating of human characteristics without which life would become meaningless. Here lies the power of the liberal way ... " Wow!

As a Unitarian, Stevenson encouraged the free interchange of ideas, because one never knows where the solutions to problems of life emerge. He called for a fresh approach. His perspective asks us to be willing to try new things, to abandon the static, comfortable position that causes atrophy. Collapsing into judgment of something, someone and most importantly ourselves, often happens so rapidly that we shut the doors to new possibilities without thinking. Even if you end up not agreeing or feeling consonant with another's way, the practice of staying open is one that keeps you flexible. Reset the default so that there is more possibility for play in the margins of life.

We are not a rigid community. We do progress. We grow more supple and willing to take on new challenges. This dynamic of embracing and seeking change helps when the days are short and there's nonstop holiday music blaring from every street corner, every aisle ... If this is a time when depression tends to take hold, try something new, risk moving out of the darkness into what might start out feeling a bit "whacky" yet could provide access to experiences of awe, to a power of gratitude in us that surprises us and others with its sincere and welcoming generosity. Abandoning certainty for the unknown can lead to discoveries, which replace rigidity's bleakness with joy. How often, it seems, we choose what we know, when what we don't know can bring lightness of heart and lead to new vistas of great clarity and inspiration.

Let us choose the way that opens meaning for us, our families, community and the world. May the warmth and light of love be with you in this darkest of months.

Michael

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION NEWS

REGARDING RE - CORY ZELLER, DRE, NOVEMBER 22, 2011

In the Religious Education program, we are fostering giving more than receiving this year. In the month of November, all of the classrooms got involved with helping others. The 3rd-6th graders learned about ethical eating and prepared a snack for the Fellowship involving all local foods. The K-2nd graders spent the month learning about and helping animals. They made wildlife feeders, collected blankets and towels for the Manhattan Animal Shelter, sold book-marks to earn money to donate to an animal-related charity, and learned about assistance dogs and monkeys. The preschoolers made get-well cards for ill members of the Fellowship and helped the 3rd-6th graders with their snack preparation. And, the infants and toddlers practiced activities they can do to help at home, like getting themselves dressed, brushing their teeth, setting the table, and washing the family pet. They also made decorations for the snack table and for their Thanksgiving tables at home.

In the month of December, the giving continues. The pre-K, K-2nd, and 3rd-6th grade classrooms will participate in the Guest at Your Table program by taking boxes to their houses for donations and asking other Fellowship members to get involved. If you are interested in donating, please find a child. And if you are not particularly interested, a child may find you anyway. How can you turn down a sweet face? All donations will go to helping individuals, families, and communities in need. You will learn all about this year's guests during the Children's Story time this month.

The kids will also spend class time in December learning about and celebrating Kwanzaa, Hanukkah, and Christmas with their room grandparents. Each holiday has its unique and special traditions, which the kids will learn about in addition to recognizing that they all extol family and giving.

In the spirit of the holidays, the RE program will have two social events this month. The first will be Parents' Night Out on Friday, December 2, from 6:30-9:30 pm. The other will be a Family Fun Cookie Swap on Saturday, December 17, from 2-4 pm. Please join us for both!

The holidays are so much fun. We get to spend time with family, enjoy good food, and relax (ok, maybe only some of us get to do that!). Let us all focus on giving of ourselves this year instead of receiving!

Cheers! Cory

HELPING HANDS SUNDAY

Each month on the second Sunday, our Social Action Committee selects a non-profit agency or organization to receive the morning offering. On Sunday, DECEMBER 11, Helping Hands contributions will provide funds to purchase Holiday gifts for individuals and families residing at the MANHATTAN EMERGENCY SHELTER during Christmas. Folks living in the shelter are homeless, unemployed, and unable to meet basic needs. Your gifts will help to give some joy during this holiday season.

ALL ABOUT US

New member DEIRDRE GREELEY joined the Fellowship several months ago. We asked her to tell us about herself and her family. She writes, "Keith and I have been married 13 years. I had a son and daughter when we got married, Lee and Juliette. Juliette, my daughter, and her girls are here with us until she finishes school. Her girls are Carrie and Lauren, the two cuties you see me with most Sundays. Instead of Gramma or Nana, they call me DeeDee. They love the RE program, and the wonderful people who lead them. My son Lee lives in Georgia and is getting married in May.

"Keith and I met through a mutual friend at Ft Hood, Texas, where we were both active duty Army. I was a medical laboratory technician teaching blood banking, but to keep our family from being split by different duty stations, I left the Army and the laboratory and went back to school to become a Registered Nurse. He is a combat engineer, and was looking for IEDs (roadside bombs) in Iraq until his safe return two weeks ago. I currently work at Meadowlark Hills, and I love to see the smiling faces of some of our residents every week at UUFM.

"I am an ordained Wiccan Priestess, and most notably started the Open Circle at Ft Hood in 1995. Although I'm Wiccan, I've always missed the weekly fellowship of the more traditional churches that I grew up in, but couldn't see myself praying to Jesus every week just to take part in the friendships and closeness of a church, until one day my friend told me about the Unitarian Universalist faith. I'm happy to say I've finally found a place where I feel at peace with my beliefs. I may be Wiccan, but now I'm also a UU. Keith was raised Seventh Day Adventist, but has no specific religious beliefs. He values reason and morality above religion, and agrees with the Seven Principles of UU.

"One of our hobbies since arriving in Kansas is geocaching, and we often spend a weekend afternoon outside beating the bushes for caches in the area. We also have two wonderful shelter dogs and a rescue cat that we've had for many years, and spend time walking and playing with them, too. When the weather's nice we'd much rather be outdoors than in. We like to bike, hike and camp. And since September, I've been leading the Pagan Friendship Circle here at UUFM [see Circle activities on page 4], and now that Keith's home, he's right there with me."

We asked Deirdre what people might be surprised to find out about them? She said, "We got married twice: the first one was a Wiccan handfasting on Halloween, and the second one was on the top of Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico on the Winter Solstice six weeks later. I carried mistletoe as my flowers, and every year on the Solstice, Keith has cut me a new sprig of mistletoe to hang. That is, until we came to Kansas ... we've found no mistletoe here."

PAT and KEN EMBERS plan to go to Bong Son, Vietnam, for the dedication of the Bong Son Lucky Stars Library Learning Center on December 9. Ken writes, "Several members of the 61st Assault Helicopter Co, the 'Lucky Stars,' will meet us there, plus members of the Libraries of Vietnam Project, and other interested persons. We are doing this as an investment in the future of our children in America and Vietnam. Communication and building relationships is fun and rewarding and leads to cross cultural understanding. Anyone can be a part of this project. In the future we will need not only money, but also skills, information and expertise that someone might offer by going to Vietnam or engaging online with our new friends there. The LOVP motto is, 'We always come back.' We plan the dedication to be the beginning of an ongoing relationship between Americans and Vietnamese kids and adults."

Congratulations to DICK BEEMAN who is retiring this month on December 31, 2011. Dick started working at the USDA Agricultural Research lab on College Avenue on December 17, 1979 (32 years ago). He will retain an office and access to a laboratory, and will continue to participate in ongoing research projects pro bono. When asked what he is most looking forward to, Dick said "I'm most looking forward to spending much more time painting in oils (portraits and landscapes), and of course, being an even more devoted house-husband to Sylvia, if such is possible."

We recently checked in with CHRISTOPHER RENNER. He is teaching Italian at KSU. This fall he has 16 hours (5 courses). So all he does while in Manhattan is work on lesson plans and teach. Since the salary at K-State is half what he made being a care provider, he still works weekends in Lawrence where he cares for an 87 year old stroke/congestive heart failure patient. After he finishes teaching on Thursdays at 7:30 pm, he load the cats into the car and heads to Lawrence where he works until 7 pm on Sunday night when he drives back to Manhattan. Christopher said he really appreciates the Fellowship's podcasts of our Sunday programs. This summer, he hopes to lead two study abroad tours in Italy. And next January, Christopher is planning a course entitled "Italia in bocca" (Italy in the mouth) that will combine language instruction with cooking.

"WHO'S THE UU?" CAN YOU GUESS WHO?

- ~ This UU graduated from high school at 15 years old. When 17, he/she traveled around Europe for nearly a year and remembers hearing Hitler on the loudspeakers while in Germany.

$SHOP $SMART GROCERY CERTIFICATES

Ray's Apple Market and Hy-Vee certificates are available by special order. The certificates are purchased from the Fellowship at face value, and the UUFM earns 4% of all certificates purchased! The beauty of the project is that it costs purchasers no more than they would normally spend on food, prescriptions, etc, but UUFM benefits with every purchase! Buy the certificates in the narthex after the Sunday service. Learn more from Sandy Nelson at 341-0135 or sandralounelson@yahoo.com, or Betty Banner at 776-1887 or bettybanner@gmail.com
