

ANNOUNCEMENT FROM OUR SUNDAY SERVICES TEAM

CONCERNING PLANS FOR SERVICES IN SUMMER AND FALL 2020

In accordance with the recommendation of the UUA, we will continue to come together each Sunday by Zoom, ONLINE ONLY, through Fall of 2020 [find new link at uufm.net/zoom]. We will also continue to meet and find fellowship through online Chalice Circles and other small groups.

UUA recommends that congregations remain remote in their operations through the entire 2020-21 year. UUUFM will reevaluate based upon local, state, and federal conditions and guidelines in January of 2021. We might need to extend this approach through Spring of 2021.

SUMMER SERVICES 2020

Summer Services will be hosted on the Zoom platform and will be drawn from other UU congregations. This will be a chance to learn how other congregations conduct Sunday services online. Each week will still have a UUUFM convener, Joys and Concerns, and opportunity for coffee and conversation among our community members. The shared service approach will occur throughout August and August. Our congregation will contribute a custom-made service August 23.

If you are interested in contributing to Sunday Services through a reading, by convening, or through special music, we encourage you to step up during this difficult time and contact either Katie Kingery-Page (kingerypage@gmail.com) or Les Loschky (loschky@gmail.com) to register your interest. We always welcome new conveners, and you can tailor your commitment to your time. Convening once a quarter is welcomed, as is convening once a year! It takes many to create our Sunday Services. It is only when we come together as a community that we can maintain a vibrant spiritual life during this turbulent time.

AS WE ENTER SUMMER, THE SUNDAY SERVICES COMMITTEE WANTS TO THANK ALL OUR 2019-20 YEAR CONVENER!

These conveners work with many other great UUs to make services happen:

Susan Adamchak
Chris Bailey
Diane Barker
Dick Beeman
Mark Clarke
Sarah Desmet
Pat Embers
Ana Franklin
Emily Fraser
Terri Hardley
Cathy Hedge
Harriette Janke

AUGUST 2020 SUNDAY SERVICES

AUGUST 2 "THE WISDOM TO KNOW THE DIFFERENCE"

We join Rev Rose Schwab, Senior Minister of Shawnee Mission UU Church. As religious people, we are not only called to the free and responsible search for truth and meaning, but also to the deep and searching moral inventory. As people the world over struggle to look internally at ... systemic racism ... we can look to the wisdom of other self-help programs for intuits into the difficult work of unworking. Join us for a service about healing from and coming out of addiction, self-hatred, and self-harm. May the wisdoms of addiction ministries shed light on the issues that we as a globe face today, breaking us open to more honest, and open dialogue. Our convener is Tom Phillips at twp1@ksu.edu.

AUGUST 9 "PROTEST AND PRAYER: TRANSFORMED BY COURAGEOUS LOVE"

The tools we need to transform our communities are the tools of courageous love. Although we think of protest and prayer as different tools, what if we could see protest as a form of prayer and prayer as a form of protest? Rev Sarah Oglesby-Dunegan of the UU Fellowship of Topeka shares her experiences of the intersections between prayer and protest and the power of courageous love to transform each of us and all of us as people and communities working for justice and peace. Our convener is Jessica Sievers a sieversj@gmail.com.

AUGUST 16 "ANCHORED OVER THE HORIZON"

Vaclav Havel wrote that hope "transcends the world that is immediately experienced, and is anchored somewhere beyond its horizons." How do we hold fast to hope, even when it is distant? Rev Oscar Sinclair serves the Unitarian Church of Lincoln, Nebraska, and will be joined in leading worship by staff and lay leaders of the Unitarian Church of Lincoln. Our convener is Larry Weaver at lweaver@phys.ksu.edu.

AUGUST 23 "PERSONS OR A PEOPLE? TENSIONS BETWEEN INDIVIDUALITY AND COMMUNITY IN OUR CHURCHES AND CULTURE"

We'll join Rev Jonalu Johnstone, Music Director Renea Brown, and members of UUFM on Zoom. The tension between individuality and community crops up everywhere--in our response to the pandemic, in our reactions to racism, in running our congregations. Unitarian Universalists steeped in individualism sometimes struggle with how to make ourselves into a community. How do we equip ourselves to create balance between being persons and being a people? Our convener is Elke Lorenz at elkelorenz9@gmail.com.

AUGUST 30 "MAKING REAL COMMUNITY"

What does it mean to be part of a community and how do we know when we are in fact part of such a thing? Our Great Pause as a society has called into question many of our prior assumptions about religious congregations and all sorts of other ways we are, or are not, part of communities. The Rev Kevin W Jagoe serves BuxMont Unitarian Universalist Fellowship in Warrington, Pennsylvania, as their minister and is joined by Music Director John Hook, Accompanist Margaret Lea, and lay members of the BuxMont community. Our UUFM convener is Judy Nickelson at judynickelson@gmail.com.

There will be NO in-person attendance at Sunday services, at this time. Watch for announcements as circumstances develop. Learn how to join us and find the LINK for VIRTUAL SUNDAY SERVICES at uufm.net/zoom.

For some years now, the warnings about fascism have increased. Now, we witness federal troops taking protesters from the streets of Portland, Oregon, and expanding their presence to other cities. Who knows what will happen between the time I write this column and you read it?

This series of events may have been impossible without the on-going pandemic. With the pandemic, many things that looked impossible have happened. Every type of meeting imaginable--worship services, classrooms, happy hours, birthday parties, press conferences, and political assemblies--moved on-line almost overnight. A majority of the country has embraced Black Lives Matter as more than a slogan. Mississippi has jettisoned its flag, a legacy of the Confederacy that refused to die for more than a hundred and fifty years. The Washington football team has announced a name change, the owner's staunch resistance evaporating after years of fighting it.

Changes, once impossible, have tumbled along more quickly than anyone could have imagined. And the pandemic has probably been part of that because so much that was familiar had disappeared in a sudden burst. Change suddenly seemed possible.

Yet, resistance to needed change has deep roots. Racism and white supremacy cling like static on a dry day, invisible and persistent, despite efforts to disperse. And, we learned during the 1960's that elected leaders can and will block progress, even if it means resorting to violence and misuse of police authority.

When we see these extreme reactions, we begin to know the depth of the changes being advocated. As Unitarian Universalists, we may think that equal treatment for all races under the law is a no-brainer. That is a naïve reaction, misunderstanding the complex history of race and policing. Slave patrols captured fugitives seeking freedom. Bull Conner's officers beat Freedom Riders. And, in the same way today, racist policies and ideas will be reasserted through force when they cannot be argued with reason.

The potentially good news is that with force the only argument left, the time for a real reckoning with race in America may be nigh. Providence, Rhode Island, has initiated a truth commission that expects to come up with recommendations for reparations, another once-impossible event coming into being.

However, the potentially bad news is that force can sometimes win--at least temporarily. And as former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright wrote in her book Fascism: A Warning: "The real question is: who has the responsibility to uphold human rights? The answer to that is: everyone."

As Unitarian Universalists, we embrace the responsibility to uphold human rights. We support the inherent worth and dignity of every person. We may not know how, exactly, to respond. However, we know that we must do what we can to keep force from defeating the human spirit.

Stay safe out there, Jonalu

You can contact Jonalu at 785 537-2349 or revjonalu@uufm.net. Read Jonalu's blog at uufm.net/topic/minister-blog/

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN RE?

Each Saturday from 4 – 6 pm, we gather at the K-State Intramural Fields (corner of Denison and Kimball). The fields provide a lovely opportunity for kids to run off energy, fly kites, or explore for bugs while maintaining good distance. Extremely good distance!

Bring your own lawn chair and a cool beverage, and enjoy the company of others while staying safe.

In July we distributed bug jars with a magnifying glass for everyone. Tom Phillips took time to identify our bugs while flying a kite at the same time!

And one Saturday we walked down to the K-State Gardens with Tom and others to look for interesting bugs. Did you know there's a Butterfly Garden there? Here's a bit of info from their website: "The Butterfly Garden is located on the south east side of the Historic Conservatory. It is home to hundreds of native butterflies which gather during the hot, calm days of summer. Many assorted plants in the garden provide the needed food for larval and adult butterflies."

"Local Master Gardeners are currently re-designing and planting the Butterfly Garden area to create a better habitat and accommodate the full life-cycle of native butterfly species. After completion, The Gardens will be considered a butterfly Waystation. Learn more at www.monarchwatch.org/waystations/."

Pick up a packet of milkweed seeds from Sandy next Saturday so you can start your own Monarch Waystation.

Dick Beeman shared a video he made of the giant cecropia silk moth caterpillars he is rearing. They are the largest caterpillars in North America. Dick says that they turn a forest of apple branches into a pile of bare sticks overnight! These are some very hungry caterpillars:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/16dsADvmhoiRaqJDtbJq2l7n_OgeyQFuY/view?usp=sharing

In August we'll have more fun things to distribute to everyone.

I hope you'll join us!

Sandy Nelson

UUFM SPONSORS BLESSING BOX AT WONDER WORKSHOP

"Blessing Boxes for Manhattan/Riley County is an initiative of the Food and Farm Council of Riley Co. BBFM is an outdoor food pantry that serves those in need 24/7. If you need a blessing, donations are available and if you are blessed, leave a blessing." -- from www.facebook.com/blessingboxesformanhattan/.

Judy Nickelson had supported and helped build Blessing Boxes in Topeka before moving here. She thought UUFM might install a Blessing Box at Wonder Workshop in memory of Richard Pitts. After hearing positive comments, she brought it to the attention of our Social Action Team. Doug Walter will oversee the building and installation of the box and organize the effort to keep it stocked. Costs for building and installation will be covered by the Social Action budget.

The Blessing Box is for people to take what they need and leave what they can. STAY TUNED FOR UPDATES on the UUFM/Wonder Workshop Blessing Box as it is built, installed and opened for blessings.

TREASURER'S REPORT -- JULY 22, 2020

Our fiscal year starts June 1, so we are just at the beginning of the year. The good news is that when we combine pledges with other recurring online donations, it looks like we will meet our 20/21 pledge contribution budget of $137,852. For June, income and expenses were as expected. I will put together a table with numbers for the next month's newsletter.

Please consider using online donations. It is easy and can be used to setup recurring donations. To make an online donation go to the UUFM web site (<http://uufm.net/>), scroll to the bottom of the page, and click Give to UUFM. If you have any questions, please contact me.

Stay safe and stay in touch, Dan Swenson

SAVE YOUR CANS FOR RE!

Sandy Nelson will be collecting empty cans for an RE project, over the next two or three weeks. Small, 6 oz tomato paste cans and 20 oz pineapple cans would be especially helpful, but all sizes are needed. Contact Sandy at dre@uufm.net, to arrange pick up of your cans.
