AUGUST 2019 SUNDAY SERVICES

AUGUST 4 "SPIRITUAL JOURNEYS"

We accompany Fellowship members Kathleen Tanona, Sarah Desmet, and Susan Adamchak on their renderings of their personal (spiritual) journeys. They will consider their values and beliefs and how they developed, their theologies (or lack thereof), and what made them decide to become UUs. Our convener is Elke Lorenz at 785 218-4014 or elkelorenz9@gmail.com.

AUGUST 11 "BEING AND BECOMING UNITARIAN UNIVERSALIST"

Rev Jonalu Johnstone speaks. What does it mean to be Unitarian Universalist? Many of us made a deliberate choice that these were our people. Others grew up in a tradition that has always been theirs. Today, we will honor three recent high school graduates moving on their journeys. In that context, we'll consider what growing up UU means and what growing as a UU means through our whole lives. Our convener is Michael Oldfather at 785 537-3738 or mou812@ksu.edu.

AUGUST 18 "KANSAS TO KHASI HILLS"

Fellowship member Molly McGaughey shares her experience sponsoring a student in the Khasi Hills of India through the UU Partner Church program. Molly attended the 10th anniversary of the Annie Margaret Barr Children's Village. Being welcomed into a matriarchal culture and the strong Unitarian community of Mawsynjri was powerful. Join us to learn more about how a group of nine UUs from the US prepared for, celebrated, and reflected on this pilgrimage. Our convener is Tom Phillips at 405 880-6483 or twp1@ksu.edu.

AUGUST 25 "GOOD NEWS! UU EVANGELISM"

Rev Jonalu Johnstone leads this service. "Evangelism" is a word most of us aren't too fond of. Yet, many of us wish we had heard about Unitarian Universalism sooner than we did. We'll consider the case of nineteenth century Universalist evangelist Quillen Shinn, and how we live out our faith so that others want to know who we are. Our convener is Sarah Desmet at 785 477-7673 or sarah.e.desmet@gmail.com.

WELCOMING CONGREGATION

Learn more about the Welcoming Congregation initiative at www.uua.org/lgbtq/welcoming/program

Almost every week, I see something that reminds me that religious affiliation in the US is consistently and rapidly dropping. Nearly as many people identify as unaffiliated (22.8%) as Evangelical Protestant (25.4%), the largest group. Most who identify as "nones," that is, having no religious affiliation, have questioned the particular beliefs taught by religion and/or the social and political positions espoused by religious groups.

Unitarian Universalists have no argument with these "nones." We, too, have questioned both the beliefs and ideology of religious groups, especially those most prominent in the US. That may be reasons enough that our religious affiliation continues to matter in this time of decline for religion. We actually can provide a place where those who question can belong.

Still, there's something else I think we as Unitarian Universalists do uniquely well. And it's something the world desperately needs. Not only do we appreciate each other's talents and flairs, we value one another's thoughts, beliefs and opinions--even when they differ from our own.

I remember sitting in a covenant group (like our Chalice Circles) in a former church, listening as people shared their ideas about what is ultimate. Some used the word "God," but not everyone did. I remember the comment that came from an octogenarian, a devout humanist who didn't have use for God. He leaned forward from his armchair and spoke slowly, "I am coming to understand that what some of you mean by 'God' may be what I call 'mystery.'"

We don't share the same vocabulary, but that doesn't mean we cannot share our hearts and minds. A convinced atheist regularly attended a class I offered on spirituality, though he wasn't quite sure what the word meant. But he thought the class helped him to become more conscious in the way he lived, and he valued consciousness. In return, the co-teacher of the class and I modified the vocabulary of questions and discussion points, adding words about consciousness to our language of connection with Spirit. We all grew from our willingness to bring his perspective to the table.

As we welcome people moving to our community over the next couple of months, let's remember how we value both what we share and what we differ on. May we come together in the spirit of unity and find new ways of moving in the world by listening to and learning from one another.

PRINTED REFLECTION ON SUNDAY MORNINGS

Dear Friends, I am aware that a few people find hearing difficult, even using the assisted listening devices. I have experimented with printing the text of my reflection, making it available to a few people,

I am committed to making a text version of my reflection available each time I am speaking at a service. It will be on the card table outside the sanctuary. I want to balance the goal of being ecologically sustainable, so please honor that these copies are for those who have difficulty hearing what is being said. There will be only a few copies available.

Thank you, Jonalu

SAVE THE DATES -- NEXT STEPS WEEKEND VISIT -- SEPTEMBER 20 TO 22

Our Fellowship has been considering the purchase of a different building. Though several questions and concerns about that remain, one stands out. How would we pay for it--both in terms of purchase and on-going expenses? To help us address these questions, our Board has invited a consultant to help us in financial planning. Barry Finkelstein will spend Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, SEPTEMBER 20 thru 22, with us to conduct a Next Steps Weekend program. He hopes to accomplish three goals during the visit: 1) gather enough information to gain a clear sense of who we are and where we would like to go; 2) generate specific observations and recommendations to help us on our journey; and 3) explain how the Stewardship for Us Team can offer guidance and coaching as we move into the future. Barry will meet with congregational leaders on Friday evening and Saturday morning. Saturday afternoon, he'll conduct an open workshop for everyone. On Sunday, he will hold an open forum to share his observations and recommendations. These sessions will be engaging, energetic, and informative. We'll provide snacks and childcare will be available. We encourage all to attend.
